

James Knupp

Member & Events Manager

Biography

As member and events manager, James Knupp supports the firm's association management platform, bringing deep experience in project management, event coordination, external engagement, and publication support.

Prior to joining TAG, Knupp served as Defense and Foreign Policy Project Manager at the Cato Institute, where he oversaw public and private events, managed department projects from conception to completion, coordinated with government relations staff on Hill events and outreach, and supported publication processes for print and digital platforms. He previously held research and policy roles at the Millennial Action Project, and the American Enterprise Institute.

A native of the Chicago suburbs, James earned a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science from American University, with a concentration in American Government and a minor in Russian. He also studied abroad at Saint Petersburg State University and is conversational in Russian.

Past Roles

Project Manager, Cato Institute
Policy and Operations Associate, Millennial Action Project

Selected Expertise

- Program Management
- Event Management
- Association Administration
- Publication Support